

POLITICAL PARTY COMMITTEES
(Including County Central Committees)

Questions and Answers

Q: On January 4, 2007, a Sacramento county central committee makes an independent expenditure of $20,000 to support a candidate seeking a city office. The election is on March 6, 2007. When and where does the committee file Form 465?

A: The committee must file the Supplemental Independent Expenditure Form (Form 465) on or before January 25, 2007. The Form 465 is filed with the city.

Q: A county central committee will make a $2,000 contribution to a local ballot measure committee. Does the central committee report the contribution on its semi-annual statement or does this contribution trigger a supplemental pre-election report (Form 495)?

A: The central committee reports the $2,000 contribution on its semi-annual statement. If the contribution is made during the 16 days prior to the election, a late contribution report must also be filed. Contributions must total $10,000 or more in connection with a 2007 local election before a supplemental pre-election report (Form 495) is required.

Q: If a state special election is held in 2007, will a central committee's filing obligations change?

A: Yes. Depending upon the activity of the central committee, it may be required to file pre-election reports and late contribution reports. A filing schedule for the election will be posted on the FPPC website.

Q: Must a committee file the odd-year report due on April 30 if the only contribution made between January 1 and March 31 is a contribution of $3,000 to a state senator to pay debt from the 2006 election?

A: No. The committee must make contributions totaling $10,000 or more to state officeholders to trigger this statement.

Q: Must a committee file the odd-year reports if the committee's only contributions are to another political party committee?

A: No.

Q: Must a committee file the odd-year report if the committee has made contributions of $10,000 or more to a ballot measure committee controlled by an elected state officer?

A: Yes. All contributions to state officeholders, their controlled committees, and to committees primarily formed to support or oppose elected state officeholders are counted toward the $10,000 threshold. This includes contributions to legal defense committees, state officeholder committees, and local committees that are controlled by an elected state officeholder.

Q: Must a committee file the odd-year report if the committee made a contribution of $5,000 to one state officeholder and a contribution of $6,000 to another state officeholder during the first quarter of 2007?

A: Yes. The report is triggered if $10,000 or more is contributed during the applicable period.
